

EASING INTO OBSCURITY, JESS IS DRAWN TOWARD RING BATTLE

Relieved From Legal Tangle of Long Standing, Willard Now Certain of Gathering All Coin Himself, An Extra Inducement For Showman To Fight; Jack Dempsey Is the Logical Opponent To Meet Big Jess.

JESS WILLARD, heavyweight champion, appears to be ready now to appease those hungry for a fight. A fighter can lose easily through lack of preparation, but Willard is not a modest or bashful man. He does not enjoy the plaudits of the multitude. He must box again or forever leave the arena of the prizefighter which might be his.

Out of Legal Tangle.

When Willard signed to box Jack Johnson for the heavyweight crown he was rushed into trouble. He signed under contract to one manager and signed papers presented by another. Willard sold a part of his earnings to the manager who had no right to do so. He was forced to talk business through so many parties he never knew what was going on. Now he is ready to fight and harvest the results of his bargaining.

Which Will He Fight?

There seems no reason for Willard to remain in obscurity longer. There are at least two contenders for his laurels, each of whom could provide an attraction with drawing powers. The boxing situation is almost like it was when Jim Jeffries was forced out of retirement, only to fall leniently in battle efforts to defeat Johnson. Now boxing followers want only one man who can reach high enough and hard enough to see Willard into unconsciousness. The quillies may not pay as much to see Willard's final act as they did to watch at the weak-kneed of Jeffries, but there will be a pack at the ringside when Willard strikes for action again.

There seems to be a wide difference of opinion as to who is entitled to the first smash at Willard. Jack Dempsey has been flooding near-fighters with regularity. The bigger they are the better time it takes Dempsey to beat the issue. There hardly is a man in the country who has been able to give Dempsey a battle. He lands once and does not stop the opponent.

Not Nice—But Close.

Fulton failed miserably against Dempsey. The tall plasterer hardly knew what hit him, yet Fulton is being advanced as the most logical candidate for Willard's laurels. Fulton hardly did himself justice against Dempsey. Dempsey started too fast.

FIRST METHODISTS AND CATHOLICS TO BATTLE

That there will be plenty of real fight turned loose tonight at the "T" gym when the First Methodist and Catholic basketball teams meet is evident from practice by the two teams. The Catholics are leading the church and the Methodists will try to stop their victorious march. The Trinity Methodists meet the Methodist basketball team in the first game of the evening. The First Methodists are scheduled to meet the First Presbyterians in the second game of tonight's basketball program.

MISS BOGART WINNER IN WOMEN'S SINGLES

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 11.—Miss Caroline Bogart, of Pinehurst, defeated Miss Katherine Lake, of Raleigh, yesterday in the women's singles of the midwinter tennis tournament finals, 6-0, 6-2. In the finals of the men's singles C. P. Watson, Jr., of the Westchester Country club, won over Nathan Bundy, of the Norfolk Country club, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

PRICELESS GOLF BALLS.

New York, Jan. 11.—There's a story told of a service in golf who had not appeared in many competitive events, and so was not familiar with the strict rules of the game. He and a friend started out for a round, and at the first water hole, the novice's ball submerged and he had to cross a bridge to retrieve it. Returning, he dropped it on the fairway, but his partner notified him that under the rules he must drop it behind the point at which it entered the water, which was in the rough. It was a new thing for him, but he put up to back. Going to the third hole he missed in the rough and continued search failed to find the ball. His partner assisted him, but after 15 minutes had elapsed he pointed out that only five minutes were allowed to look for a rubber core.

"Not that I wish to take advantage of the rule," continued his partner, "but why not play another ball? If you haven't another with you I will lend you one."

"Well," came the answer, "I hate to lose the ball, as it is one of a dozen my wife gave me for my birthday."

ARIZONA CONVICTS MAKE AN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

Florence, Ariz., Jan. 11.—A number of convicts have made an attempt to escape. At night they managed to throw the switches so as to throw one side of the prison yard into deep shadow, and then attempted to scale the walls. The guards were alert, however, and a few rifle shots were enough to drive the convicts back to their quarters.

Men's Sweaters, 25 Percent Off.

We are offering a line of men's Jersey sweaters at the attractive reduction of 25 percent. See special window display.

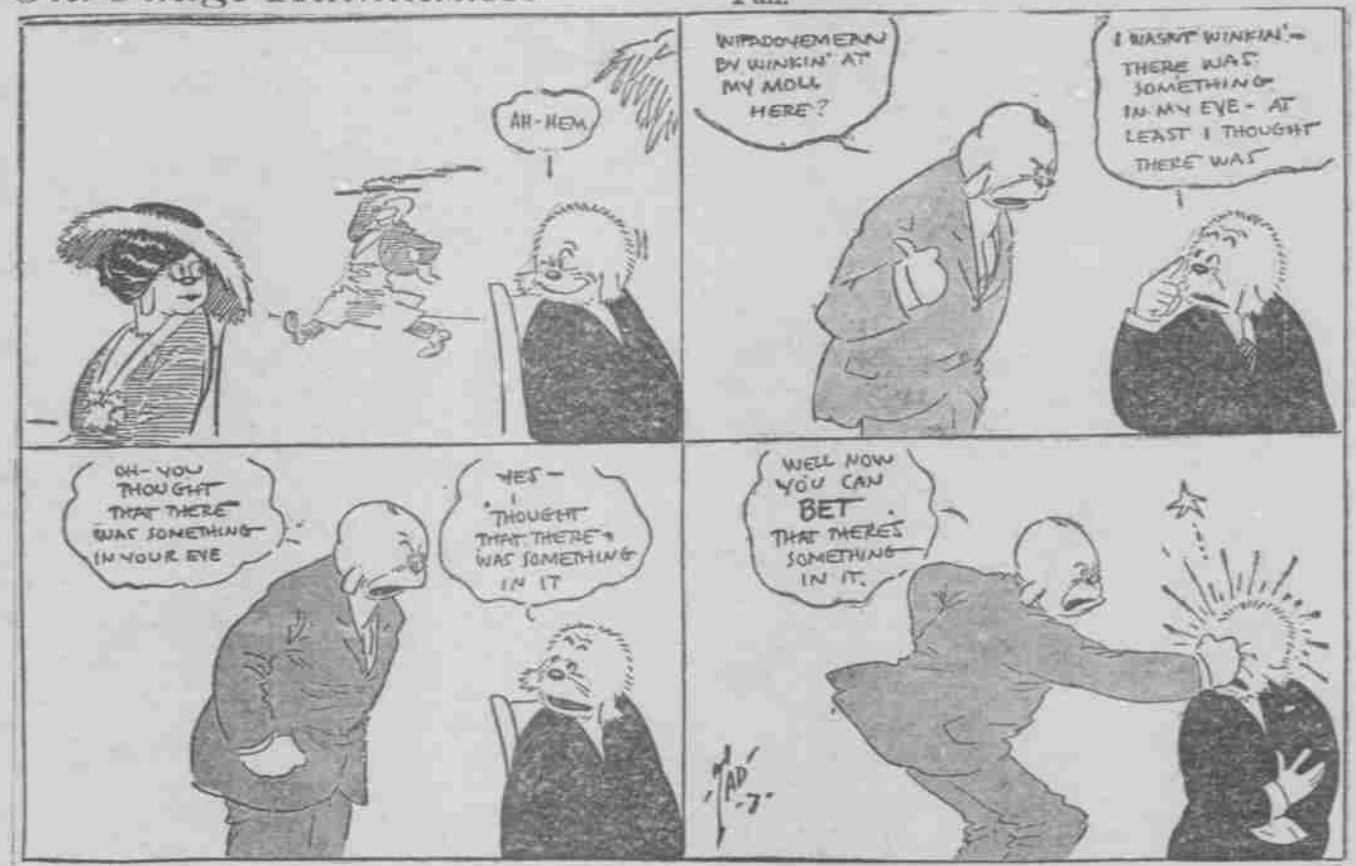

Feldman's—308 San Antonio Street. Advertisement.

Among the 4,239 applicants who were found jobs by the United States employment service during the first week in December, 12,454 were women.

Old Judge Rumhauser

He Really Gets An Eye Full.

By Tad

GIBLETS BY ROY EMIK

MOST of the world's greatest athletes have been hailed as marvels. Champion football teams are often considered an aggregation of athletes especially and wonderfully gifted by nature. In the majority of cases the facts will be found to be that the athlete and members of athletic teams which have accomplished unusual success are composed of about the ordinary athletic timber but have expended greater energy in preparation. Sometimes it appears that they have had better trainers, but invariably the greater portion of credit should go to continual hard work in practice and clean living that enables the athlete or athlete team to reach the highest point of success.

Just what may be done by faithful, conscientious work by a football team has been illustrated by the Ninth engineers. The builders have many less men from which to choose a team than several other organizations at Bliss. Their opportunity to practice has not been as good. Yet these players whom larger organizations did not believe could develop a dangerous team, went to the top. The players are stars. Nothing should be said to detract from personal efforts of the victorious builder team, but the big items in their success were continual hard work in harmonious practice and an effort to develop in team work rather than individual work. What there has been a surprise in the football

Shaffer, the fast, effective halfback of the Ninth engineers, is a player of example of class No. 1. In practice Shaffer never shows up overly brilliant. In real action he is a star. It is said by those who have watched him practice goal kicks from the field that he has never been expert in his attempt. Yet when it comes to the pinch he has made the only three he tried during the season's schedule. When the Ninth eleven played the Recruits, Shaffer tied the score with his toe, making a pretty field goal and establishing his claim to win later. He made the second one against the Eighth engineers and the third in the game against the Recruits of the Seventh cavalry. He has failed in either the game against the Recruits or the Seventh riders, both games must have been lost to the engineers.

Dick Brenton, a heavyweight who has a good record on the Pacific coast, is in the Pacific coast. Brenton is in the Pacific coast. Brenton is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt, who was a star in the Pacific coast, is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

Young Britt is in the Pacific coast. Young Britt is in the Pacific coast.

After Lull Golf Bound To Develop Big Revival Soon

Game Handicapped More Than Other Sports During Wartime, Will Have Big Year, Predicts Lieut. Ouimet; Renewed Life In Game Exhibited In West As Well As East.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The fact that the golfers have been more or less lull since war was declared, will account for the big boom which is sure to come this year, according to Lieut. Francis Ouimet. The Massachusetts golfer says that when a man goes on from year to year playing the game steadily, there is bound to come a slack period, a time when he doesn't care whether school keeps or not. But when a man has had two years to appreciate what the game is and means to him, to ponder over it, he is bound to come back with a new vigor and will resume play keener than ever before.

There will be bigger rivalry, keener rivalry than ever, said Ouimet, a short time ago. "The championship and the big invitation meets will be more attractive than ever to the old boys, and the new boys will be more anxious to get into the game. The boys who have been coming along fast, who think they are pretty good and long for the chance to show, it is going to be absolutely remarkable the way the game will go in 1919."

We all have been under more or less of a strain the past few years. Exhibition matches, many of them have been played, and while the men have their time willingly, often marred by the fact that they are not in the best of health. The cause always was a worthy one, but the old pep was not there. The air of free competition, of men who were striving for individual honors.

It cannot be anything but a great big year on the links. Whether they will be good or poor players, all hands will be anxious to get into the game again. And if we are going to play a better game of golf than before the war, competition certainly will be keener than ever and I look for a more equal standard than ever before. And what I say pertains to the professionals no less than to the amateurs; to other branches of sport no less than to golf.

The revival in golf will strike the west as well as the east. There is, for instance, the case of the Golden Valley Golf club of Minneapolis, the club which has been freely talked about in professional circles recently. It is the organization which has lured Cyril Walker away from his job at Shickago. It is said that Golden Valley is to spend something like $20,000 this year to improve its 18 hole course and that most of the money will be for the installation of a water system which will extend all over the course.

Tourneys May Be Resumed. If A. D. Locke, president of the Massachusetts Golf association, has his way, championship tournaments will be resumed in the fall. Locke is full of enthusiasm over the 1919 outlook, as are all the members at Bliss, who are to whom he belongs. This is the club which was awarded the national open event in 1917, and the organizations have been asked by the United States Golf association if it will write the meeting. The answer was in the affirmative, as was the case with the Shawnee and Oakland clubs.

Seek Revised Honor List. Whether or not the United States Golf association will have a revised and up to date honor roll to present to the delegates at the annual meeting to be held in this city, January 14, depends entirely upon the promptness of the secretaries of the member clubs. Preparation of a list containing the names of golfers who have joined the service, army or navy, began more than a year ago, but because of tardy responses the data was incomplete at the annual meeting in Philadelphia.

Later, Secretary efforts by the secretary's office have resulted in more responses.

April. Joe took part in many matches in the town near his home during his first year as a professional in the west, and early in 1914 he met Martin Flegstad and George Nelson in Lincoln, and Pat Connors in Omaha. He aroused as much enthusiasm in those cities as he had in the rural communities, and it didn't take long for G. B. Sherman, of Lincoln, and his sporting articles to get wind of the fact that Nebraska possessed a future monarch of the ancient sport of wrestling. In March, 1915, Stecher went to Louisville and wrestled Hanson Ell in the Kentucky metropolis, adding another to his string of victories. Later Stecher defeated Jim Aspin, Joe Wallace and Paul Martinson.

It was in July, 1915, that Stecher broke into the international limelight by defeating the veteran Charley Cutler of Omaha, who had won $100,000, changing hands on the result.

CARPENTER'S BIRTHDAY. This is to notify all and sundry that tomorrow, January 12, will be the 45th birthday of George Carpenter, a heavy weight champion, who has been serving his country as an army aviator. He has come through France's great battle as he has come through his battles in the ring, victorious and unharmed. On several occasions Carpenter has been reported killed or wounded, but these rumors always proved to be without foundation, and all right fans, in wishing him many happy returns of the day, will express their thanks that he is unharmed and intact. As a boy Carpenter earned 30 cents a day working in a coal mine at Lena. The year before the war broke out his income had advanced to $20,000 a year. Then he went to war to fight for his country for a few centuries a day. Carpenter found his way through all the divisions from featherweight to heavyweight.

Just six years ago today, on January 12, 1913, the first of the great Joe Stecher's triumphs among the rural sports of Dodge and Colfax counties, Nebraska. At that time many people believed that the wrestling fame was demonstrated by the big wrestling matches. The big wrestling matches were held at the time, and a host of young men, believing that the Iowa farmer was growing old, were inspired with the ambition to wear his crown. Among those was Joe Stecher, 19 year old farm boy, and on that January day six years ago he was to engage in a match with Landour in the town of Clarkson. All the villages in the neighborhood turned out in force, and the sports saw Stecher achieve a speedy victory. That was the beginning of the great Joe Stecher's career, and he will only attain the age of 36 now.

LATE START ON DIAMONDS GETS RAPS FROM LEADING MANAGERS

Ban Johnson's Premature Schedule May Be Overturned When Club Owners Get Together; May Has Freakish Weather As Well As April; Pre-Season Games Between League Teams Would Only Show Fools.

If the major leagues have defended the opening of the season on April 15 until April 23 to avoid early spring weather, the date on which the major league season will begin will not be determined until the club owners meet. The date on which the major league season will begin will not be determined until the club owners meet. The date on which the major league season will begin will not be determined until the club owners meet.

Condensed Interleague Games. And of no less importance will be the condensed interleague games in northern cities before the start of the championship races. Most baseball men regard this proposition as ridiculous, and it doubtless will be abandoned when the club owners meet.

No club owner possessing an ounce of showmanship would countenance the proposition. Not only would it be a loss of money, but it would be a loss of prestige. The public has shown repeatedly it has no interest whatever in any but championship contests.

In Kansas eight hours constitutes a base day and six days a base week. In Kansas eight hours constitutes a base day and six days a base week.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

April of 1915, however, gave baseball a frosty start. The season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits. In May of that year five days were lost due to rain, and the season was not lost by rain, and it snowed on the 25th, checking the campaign in both circuits.

Revised Prices

The assurance of material for quantity production of Buick cars enables the Buick Motor Company to establish the following prices on the various Buick models, effective January tenth, 1919. These prices will not be changed during our present dealers' selling agreements.

Prices F. O. B. El Paso:
Three-passenger open model H-Six-44.....	$1685
Five-passenger open model H-Six-45.....	1685
Four-passenger closed model H-6-46.....	2225
Five-passenger closed model H-Six-47.....	2450
Seven-passenger open model H-Six-49.....	2000
Seven-passenger closed model H-Six-50.....	2865

Watkins Motor Co.

Sam Watkins, Mgr.
606 Mesa Avenue Phone 4068

Women are being employed as hotel cooks, elevator operators, taxicab drivers and in other capacities too numerous to mention.

Start the New Year Right

No man is at his best or can do his best who has a weak or diseased body. A strong, vigorous body means a clear active brain and Rectal and Chronic Diseases such as I treat and cure are the most prolific cause of Nervousness, Despondency, Melancholia and lack of energy or PEP.

Taking into consideration the small fee I charge and the quick cure I effect without detention from your business, it is a crime to neglect yourself.

The many thousands I have cured here, in West Texas, New Mexico and Arizona will be glad to tell you about their cases and the easy, painless methods I employ. I have hundreds of letters also from cured and pleased patients—well known prominent people whose vanity cannot be questioned, so why delay, neglect or attempt self medication, use patent medicines or waste further time and money! I CURE

PILES (Hemorrhoids)

Without using the knife, ligature, cautery or string treatment, with little if any pain and no detention from your business. My Painless Infiltration Cure leaves the parts as healthy and normal as ever with the possibility of a relapse very remote to say the least, while after any operation the parts are never normal and it leaves scars to contract and loose places for tumors to form.

FISTULA

I cure selected or uncomplicated cases of fistula with toxic or electrical medication—no cutting, no scars, no possibility of loss of control and with little pain.

FISSURES

Can be cured in every instance without operation by my special method. This is one of the most painful afflictions humanity is heir to, causing the most extreme nervousness and irritability imaginable.

ULCERS

Of the Rectum are the most commonly overlooked and the most far reaching in their evil manifestations of any simple condition that